

Security Matters in a nutshell

Security Matters (ASX:SMX) is a publicly traded Australian company that owns and has commenced commercializing the technology to permanently and irrevocably “mark” any object either solid, liquid or gas, allowing identification, proof of authenticity, tracking supply chain movements & quality assurance.

Security Matters’ vision is to become the global record for physical goods through its unique technology for asset tracking and its ability to create a “Physical to Digital Twin”.

Security Matters’ technology comprises a chemical-based hidden “barcode” system, alongside a unique “reader” to identify these codes, and a blockchain record to store and protect ownership data. Security Matters offers a B2B, “white-label” solution that serves market leaders’ needs.